

If you're going on holiday, make sure you travel smart

The summer of 2020 will be different to what we're used to. Going on holiday this year is not something that can simply be taken as a given. Many rules are in place to keep coronavirus under control.

The following rules apply to everyone

- Travel off-season if possible.
- Prepare well.
- Follow the basic rules and advice.
- Get tested if you have coronavirus-like symptoms.

Holidaying in the Netherlands

Public transport is for essential travel only and travellers must wear a non-medical face mask.

If you develop coronavirus-like symptoms while on holiday in the Netherlands, stay home and get tested. To make an appointment call 0800 1202.

Holidaying outside the Netherlands

- Travel is recommended only to those countries with a yellow travel advisory.
- Travel to countries with an orange travel advisory is not recommended. If you do go to one of these countries, you must self-isolate at home for two weeks upon your return to the Netherlands.
- Read the current travel advice on netherlandsworldwide.nl.

Before your departure, inform yourself about the country you're travelling to and the measures that are in place there.

Know what rules you must follow on the plane and in the country you're travelling to.

Download the Ministry of Foreign Affairs Travel App and turn on push notifications. Continue to monitor the travel advice from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs throughout your holiday.

Continue to follow the rules that apply in the Netherlands while you are abroad. Follow the local rules if they are stricter.

Know what insurance coverage you have while travelling, and check whether it includes repatriation.

If you develop coronavirus-like symptoms while on holiday outside the Netherlands, report this to the local health authorities.

Basic rules for everyone

- If you have coronavirus-like symptoms, stay home and get tested.
- Stay 1.5 metres away from other people.
- Avoid busy places.
- Wash your hands often.
